To Whom It May Concern:

Math 120 is an online math class where you learn from doing homework online, as well as written homework. The teacher is accessible through email and responds at a reasonable time. A strategy that can help you succeed in the class is to be on top of your game. You must check online everyday to see if you have anything due. I stayed organized by keeping a folder and printing online notes and the practice exams with the answer keys. Doing an assignment at the last minute (an hour before the deadline) is not recommended. If I were to take this class over again, I would study the week of the test not the night before or the day of the test. Study habits that worked well for me is that I reviewed the online and written homework. I also took advantage of the “show examples” part of the math problem if I didn’t understand how to solve it. Using the 3x5 index card with the formulas and examples also helped me pass my exams. Study habits that I would change if I were to take another online math class if that I would not wait until the last minute to finish my online and written homework. You think you have plenty of time because it is not due until a certain day but if you procrastinate; you get overwhelmed since there is so much to do. Giving up on a problem too fast just because it was a bit difficult is a study habit that I would change. I should challenge myself and not just throw in the towel. Another study habit that I would change is that if a problem got too difficult for me, I should have arranged a meeting with my Professor and get a better explanation of how to solve the problem. Good Luck with the class!
